6 cups water

2/3 cups sugar

1 cup lemon juice, fresh squeezed

1/2 tsp salt

1-2 tbsps rose water (I used 1 tbsp)

Place 2 cups of water and the sugar in a small saucepan and bring to a boil. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Remove the simple syrup from the heat and let cool. Mix the lemon juice, salt, and cooled simple syrup together. Add remaining water to taste. If you plan to serve over ice, then you might want to leave the lemonade a little stronger. Stir in a tablespoon of rose water. If it isn't strong enough for your tastes, then stir in a little more. Serve over ice. Makes 2 quarts.
